The following table provides information on the entry requirements of the Truman Bodden Law School in relation to students wishing to enroll on the University of Liverpool's undergraduate Bachelor of Laws programme offered through TBLS. Our policy is to treat applications on their individual merits with priority being given to qualified Caymanian applicants.

TBLS is committed to equal opportunities for all, irrespective of colour, race, ethnicity, national origins, gender, transsexual / transgender, age, religion or belief, sexual orientation, disability, marital / civil partnership status, unrelated criminal convictions, or any other characteristic not specifically related to relevant aptitudes, potential skills and abilities.

TBLS promotes equality and diversity, as a basic principle of respect of the individual. TBLS accepts candidates from a variety of backgrounds with a range of qualifications. In reaching a decision on your application, the admissions team will be seeking to identify an aptitude to pursue legal study at degree level and evidence that serious thought has been given to the decision to pursue such studies will be expected.

Below is a summary of offer criteria for all students for both programmes: LL.B (Hons) Law (Full Time) (M3OX); LL.B (Hons) Law (Part Time) (M3OY).

(Please note that applications to attend the part time M3OY programme will be accepted from legal residents in the Cayman Islands only).

C. Frequently Asked Questions

1. How do I apply for admission for the law degree?

If you are a student in your last year of study at school then you can apply to study for a law degree at The Truman Bodden Law School and having met the terms of our offer begin your degree with us straight after completing school. You do not need to wait until after you have finished your undergraduate degree as you would in North America to study law. This is because law is an undergraduate rather than postgraduate degree in the UK and the qualification you will be obtaining through TBLS is an English law degree.

Your application must be received by TBLS no later than June 1st.

2. What is the application process for Mature Students?

Mature students are welcomed at TBLS and if you fall into this category (being over the age of 21 on June 1st prior to the academic year of entry) and lack recent formal educational qualifications you will be invited to sit the Mature Students Entrance Examination which is jointly administered by the Liverpool and Truman Bodden Law Schools. This examination is offered at TBLS in July of each year.

Your application must be received by TBLS no later than June 1st.

3. How long does the degree course last?

The full time degree programme (M3OX) lasts for three years. The part time degree programme (M3OY) lasts for five or six years depending upon the mode of study elected. At appropriate points in either programme it is possible to transfer to the relevant stage of the other programme. For e.g., after two years of part time study, it is possible to transfer into year two of the full time programme.

4. Who is eligible to apply to enroll on the part time (M3OY) programme?

Only Caymanian applicants and legal residents are eligible to do so.

5. What can I do with my law degree?

As an English law degree, you can use it in the same way as a law degree obtained from any other reputable English University. In particular, the TBLS degree is recognized by the Law Society of England and Wales as a qualifying degree for professional exemption purposes. It is also recognized for professional exemption purposes in the Cayman Islands. For information on the status of an English law degree in any other jurisdiction you are advised to contact the Bar Council in that jurisdiction.

6. What admission procedures apply to international applicants?

International applicants apply in the same way as home students although their eligibility is limited to the full time M3OX programme. The admission criteria applicable to such students wishing to enter this programme is the same as that applicable to home students, as detailed above. Following receipt of an unconditional written offer from TBLS, international applicants are required to apply for a student visa from the Cayman Islands Immigration Department. Details of this procedure will be supplied by TBLS following the making of an unconditional offer.
